Clean, renewable, low-cost power for the people of Chelan County.

That's been the essence of Chelan County PUD and its hydro resources for five decades. Now, improvements in technology and growing public support are bringing new opportunities. We're adding alternative energy sources – solar and wind power – to our mix.

You can help build these new renewable energy resources in Chelan County.

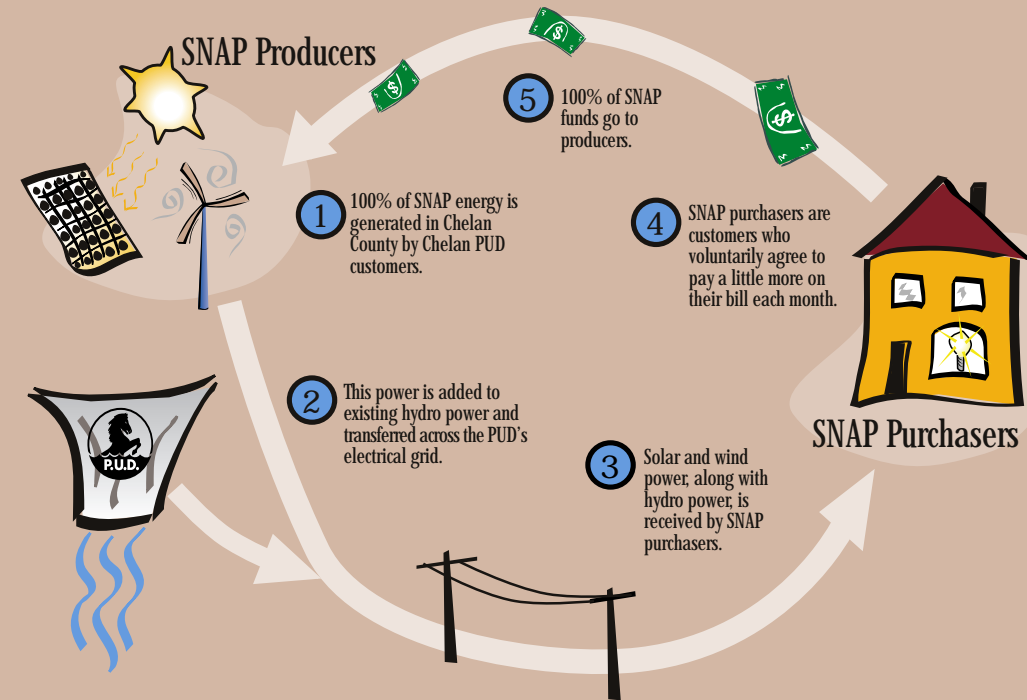

How? It's a SNAP.

SNAP is Sustainable Natural Alternative Power. It's an idea created and implemented by your Chelan County PUD. The program links local people who want to produce solar and wind power with local customers who want to buy solar and wind power. For as little as $2.50 a month, you can help build this important new resource.

100 percent of every dollar designated for SNAP goes to local producers who supply power to the PUD's electrical grid. That power is used by local customers. It's a very simple and clean proposition.

Local people ... local decisions ... local power.

How the Sustainable Natural Alternative Power (SNAP) program works

Signing up is a SNAP

Check the box next to the extra amount you would like to pay each month for solar and wind power. Your selection will automatically appear on your PUD power bill. Fill out the information, sign the card, tear off the card and slip it in the mail. (We'll even pay postage.) Or, call the SNAPLine at 667-4242. For additional information, visit the PUD's Web site at www.chelanpud.org/snap.

If you want to make a statement that clean, renewable power is important to you, here's an easy way from your Chelan County PUD.
