

CYCLE OF PERSONAL OWNERSHIP

DECEMBER 2024 WINNER

CHELAN COUNTY

CASEY KNOTT

As noted by Dan Koch, Casey went out of his way to prioritize the safety of others by spreading ice melt on the slippery walkways - even extending his effort to areas beyond immediate need. His actions reflect the kind of dedication and care that exemplify our safety culture. It's a great reminder that small, thoughtful acts often have a larger impact than we realize. Thank you, Casey, for leading by example and for looking out for your colleagues!

From Dan Koch on 12/10/24 “As I was leaving last night, the temperatures had dropped significantly and the outside area and walkways had become very, very slippery and although most people leaving (including myself) were anxious to get on their way home, Casey was taking time to spread ice melt. Not just in the immediate area, but across the street and up the walkway for a good portion of the parking lot. He was also warning people to be careful due to the slippery conditions. Perhaps this is not unusual here at the District, but I wanted to mention it. I’m happy to recognize Casey directly but thought I would ask about other opportunities. I’m copying Jared as this is exactly the safety culture we want, and Ian and Jeffrey for awareness.”
